IN THE LEGISLATURE

It has been announced that there will be a fall session of the legislature, probably in November, for the purpose of passing a provincial income tax. The members will not be paid extra indemnity for this special session, it is announced.

The Budget Speech

Premier Greenfield delivered his first budget speech in the legislature Monday last, and was the only speaker. There was no debate. During the week the estimates were taken up and passed.

The budget statement showed that there had been a deficit on current account for 1921 of $2,022,367, the total current revenue having been $9,064,569, and the expenditure having been $11,086,936. Outstanding revenue still to be collected for 1921 and, and previously, total $5,249,992. The total debt of the province had increased a total of $17,961,730 during 1921, the total debt at the end of last year having been $59,010,256.

The estimated current revenue for the coming year was placed at $14,474,560.91, and the estimated expenditure at $14,747,402.88, leaving a deficit of $272,841.97.

To provide for estimated deficits, new taxes will be imposed as follows:

Gasoline—2 cents a gallon by the consumer (Premier Greenfield announced that the government would undertake an investigation of the price of gasoline)

Amusements—Additional 2½¢ on tickets from 16¢ to $2.00.

Coal—Additional 5 cents a ton.

Corporations tax also to be increased.

The assets of the province total $106,648,682.

The new taxes it is estimated will bring in $928,000 more, to the provincial secretary's department. The attorney-general's department is expected to bring in $1,615,000 more than last year. From school lands the government expects an increase of $209,474.

During his speech the premier referred to the great necessity of improving market facilities for agricultural industry, and of securing reduction of freight rates.

Expenditures for the coming year are to be reduced from those of last year, the estimated public works expenditure being $317,000 less than 1921, and the vote for general administrative purposes has been reduced. The Health department vote has been increased by $824,000 chiefly by reason of the department having taken over the administration of the Ponoka hospital and other institutions.

During the week amendments to the dairymen's act, which provide for the elimination of cream buying stations will save the industry $150,000 a year in addition to making it possible to greatly improve the quality of the product, since the cream will be graded at the creameries by the government graders.

The amendments to the Women's Institutes were discussed in committee of the whole. The act seeks to eliminate the minister of agriculture as controlling or directing factor in the institutes, and substitutes an advisory board to be elected at the annual convention of the institutes. In the past the institutes have had the sole rights of extension work in the way of special courses in home economics and so forth. The amendments will extend this right to all organizations. The act also gives power for the appointment of the necessary officers for the carrying out of duties under the act. Grants to the institutes will remain as in the past, the only change with respect to finances being that the expenses of the annual convention will not be met by the government. The amendments aim to provide for a greater freedom and independence of the women's institutes, and the enlargement of the extension work which has been carried on in the past by making this available to all women's organizations.

U. F. W. A.

The Irma local held a very successful dance on March 17th. We were pleased to see so many old timers represented. Lee & Larson's orchestra furnished the music which was of the old time order. A substantial lunch was served at midnight by the members. Next please!

ORBINDALE U. F. A. MEETING

The Orbindale U. F. A. will hold the regular meeting at Orbindale School, Wednesday evening, April 5.

CREAM PRODUCERS PLEASE NOTICE

Now that it is decided that the Cream Stations are to be closed, it is time that the Irma people get together on a scheme for a Creamery at Irma. This is a question that will effect town and country alike. It will effect the farmer in the first place because if rumors are right the Department of Agriculture are going to be more strict than ever over the grading question, and with a local creamery the producers saves all risk of losing grade through long shipments. It will effect the townspeople by being the means of keeping the money at home instead of sending it away. It will effect every owner of land in the district because any person wanting to go in for mixed farming will buy in a district where there is a local creamery to take care of his product rather than in a district where he has to lose grade by shipment.

All those who are interested in this matter should attend the meeting to be held at Irma on Wednesday March 29th, when an expert on creamery matters will be on hand to instruct and advise on the subject.

Last Saturday afternoon Mrs. T. J. Derman gave a silver tea in aid of the Ladies Aid at which nearly $10.00 was raised. The ladies attending compliment Mrs. Derman on her efforts.

COMING BACK TO IRMA

Mr. and Mrs. R. Williamson who have been living on a farm near Fort Saskatchewan for the last couple of years, was in Irma last week. Russ has arranged to move back on his homestead on the S.E. of Section 18-46-8 in time to put in his spring crop.

AVONGLEN NEWS

Distance or bad roads make very little difference when Avonglen puts on a concert, such as last was the case on March 17th when Mrs. McTavish with the pupils and aid of some local talent put on a concert second to none. The school was hardly large enough for this occasion and from all appearance the pupils from far and near seemed to be having the best time ever. The program lasted two hours. So many requests came in for a second rehearsal of the play "Sue's been to dinner" that the chairman called the pupils for that a second time. The violin solo by Mrs. Prothero was excellent. Miss Bessie Barker gave a vocal solo in her usual pleasing manner. After the program, the raffling of the quilt made by the ladies of the district took place. Messrs J. Dalton, G. Pollard, C. Rittle and J. Bejan were called on to conduct the raffle and did their work to the satisfaction of all concerned.

The lucky parties were: Quilt to Harold Conolly, of Salteaux, Sofa Cushion to Tom Slipper, Avonglen, Pin Cushion to Geo. Peasey, Salteaux, Neck Tie to Miss Grace Barnes, of Viking, Pocket Comb to Mrs. R. Henry, Orbindale, Mirror to Florence Allen, Slipper Case to Wm. Wold, Irma Hair Brush to M. Hamilton. After the raffle lunch was served, then the stage and seats were removed and all lovers of the light fantastic tripped to the music of violins and organ until the "wee sma' hours".

The proceeds of raffle and concert were $104.05, the total expenditure of Quilt and music etc., was $19.05 earning the neat sum of $85.00 to be paid on the organ. This brings the fund up to $112.50 leaving a balance of $45.55 yet to be paid.

The people of the district wish to thank all who helped to make this a real success and especially Mrs. Prothero, Miss Barker and Earl Prior for their part on the program.

Mr. Sawdon took his daughter Miss Savenia to Edmonton on Monday to have another operation performed on the limb that was injured some years ago. We hope to see her back again much improved.

Miss Bessie Barker is visiting with Mrs. S. M. New the past week.

The Misses Grace and Mary Barnes of Viking, who have been visiting at the home of their uncle J. Carrington returned to their home on Tuesday.

Mr. Sawdon had the misfortune have one of his horses get its leg broken.

MAIN STREET

Mrs. Brickman, of Phillips, is visiting Mrs. H. Patterson.

Mr. Roy White our genial station agent intends visiting the coast in the near future.

Mr. C. A. Toll's sale of farm stock and implements was quite a success. Good prices were realized.

Mr. J. H. Elliott left Tuesday to attend the Dominion Red Poll Convention of which he is Vice-President.

We are glad to report that Mrs. A. E. Drue is recovering from her recent illness.

The G. W. V. A. monthly meeting will be held Sunday afternoon, April 2nd at 2 o'clock.

LOOK OUT later for Special Notice of Grand Concert to be held in the Co-op. Hall, Wednesday, April 19th.

Mr. F. W. Watkinson is indisposed, perhaps as a result of his trip to Calgary. We hope to see him recovered soon.

Miss Jean Prior left last week to train for a nurse. Miss Prior will be on the staff of the Royal Alexandra Hospital, Edmonton.

On Friday evening April 7th the Orbindale Base Ball Club intend holding a Dance in the schoolhouse. Everybody come.

The sudden disappearance of the snow has retarded grain hauling. It will be a week or ten days before the roads are dry enough to make wheeling good.

Sunday saw the first attempt of the season to run autos. Several cars were out and made trips along the main roads. With the exception of a few snowbanks that have not disappeared the roads are in fair shape.

Mr. A. A. Taylor, of Edmonton was in town Monday to look over his farming interests north-east of town.

Mr. and Mrs. Derman entertained a number of friends Tuesday evening and a real enjoyable time was reported.

The shareholders of the Irma Co-operative Co. met on Saturday the 18th and discussed matters relating to the business. Mr. R. W. Hay reported the result of his trip to Edmondson, and a committee consisting of Messrs. Williams, Wyatt, Hay, Love Graydon were appointed to consider the situation and bring in a report at a later meeting.

The regular meeting of the Ladies Aid was held at the home of Mrs. Graydon. As Mrs. Patterson is leaving shortly to make her home in Edmonton the ladies took this opportunity of expressing regret at losing one who was ever ready and willing to give of her time and service to help in all the affairs of the town. Mrs. Penton on behalf of the Ladies Aid, W. M. S. and U. F. W. A. presented Mrs. Patterson with a folding Camera. Mrs. Patterson was taken completely by surprise but made a fitting reply.

LEFT FOR GEORGIA

Last Friday Miss Rheba Coker received a telegram that her father was seriously ill at his home at Atlanta, Georgia. Miss Coker prepared to leave on Sunday's train, but before she left she received another message that he had died. A large number of friends were at the station to see Rheba off and wished her a safe journey. She expects to spend the summer with her brother and sister who are living in Georgia, returning to Irma in time for the High School term. Rheba's mother died about six years ago and she has been making her home with her aunt Mrs. T. Shaw.

Mrs. Ardiel Says She Was Astonished By The Wonderful Change

"It's no wonder so many people praise Tanlac to the skies—it is different from any other medicine I have ever taken as it does even more than is claimed for it," said Mrs. C. A. Ardiel, 147 Lorne St., West, Vancouver, B.C.

"Three years of suffering from stomach trouble have ended with me in the last few weeks and all on account of the wonderful benefit I have received from Tanlac. When I began taking it nothing agreed with me and I dreaded for mealtime to come round as the sight of food nauseated me. My sleep was broken, my nerves were on edge and I felt as miserable as a human being could feel.

"All this was quickly changed by Tanlac and I am like a different person now. I never dreamed a medicine could do what Tanlac has done for me."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

Public Opinion And The Law

In most emphatic manner, as recorded by positively overwhelming majorities at the polls, the people of the three Prairie Provinces declared that they not only desired the prohibition of the sale of all intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes but that they wanted a stop put to all importation of such liquors into these Provinces. In a word, the mass of the people expressed themselves as decidedly in favor of complete prohibition as applied to the liquor business in all its forms.

Acting upon the declared will of the people, the Legislatures of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta passed prohibitory laws to the full extent of the powers enjoyed by them, and the Dominion Parliament supplemented such legislation by an Act under which the importation of liquor into these Provinces was made illegal.

It should naturally follow in a presumably law-abiding British country that the traffic in intoxicants for beverage purposes would cease, and that the number of violators of the law would be few and confined to that criminal class to be found everywhere who set all law at defiance. It was to be presumed also that, taken as a whole, the citizens of these Provinces would be alert and united in seeing that the law they had themselves invoked was observed, and that those few who deliberately violated it were sought out and punished.

If a man sees another setting fire to his neighbor's house, or discovers him in the act of burglary, he does not remain silent and inactive, but he immediately notifies the police and gives all the assistance in his power to give to have the criminal apprehended and convicted. But if this same citizen witnesses an open violation of the prohibitory liquor laws, he will, in nine cases out of ten, say, in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred, not only remain silent and inactive, but will actually enjoy a hearty laugh over the spectacle of the law's violation. And if by any chance he is summoned to give evidence in the matter his ignorance of the whole proceeding proves to be simply colossal.

Yet these self same citizens are denouncing the Governments for failure to enforce prohibition, are critical of the money being expended in the effort to enforce the law, and are found expressing the opinion that prohibition is a failure. If prohibition is a failure, as these people say, and if the law officers are not wholly successful in enforcing the law, who is responsible? Does the blame rest on the Legislatures which passed the laws at the behest of the voters, or on the Governments, law officers and police who are endeavoring to the best of their ability to have the laws observed? No, the blame rests with the people themselves who, while having respect for other laws, seem to regard prohibition laws as a huge joke.

If bootlegging is rampant, if all manner of vile concoctions are being sold and consumed; if "home brew" is the product of many homes in defiance of the law and to the utter demoralization of hundreds of people, not Legislatures, nor Governments, nor police, but the average citizen, who would be insulted and indignant if he was charged with not being a good citizen but a delinquent one, is alone responsible.

No legislation, no matter how good in itself, nor how well framed, nor how efficiently enforced, can be effective and successful unless it has the sympathy of an overwhelming public opinion and the support of the individual citizen.

It is this lack of public conscience in regard to this question that is bringing the prohibition laws into disrepute. And to the extent that the enactments of the Legislatures and Parliament in this respect are being flouted and violated, all law is weakened and a premium placed on law-breaking and lawlessness. Surely, the man or woman who winks at the violation of one law has failed to appreciate the fact that he or she is thereby undermining all the forces of law and order which exist for his or her protection.

In view of the failure of most people to regard the prohibition laws seriously, and the very apparent lack of any public conscience on the issue, one would be inclined to think that the people had changed their views and that there is no such thing as any pronounced public opinion on the question. Nevertheless it is conceded in all quarters that there is strong public opinion in favor of prohibition, and that if the question was again submitted to a vote of the people prohibition would be overwhelmingly sustained.

Under these circumstances it is imperative that all good, law-abiding citizens abandon their present indifference on the subject of the violation of the liquor laws. It is essential if the law be kept on the statute books that it be observed. That can only be done through a united public opinion backing up the law, and actively co-operating with the representatives of constituted authority in seeing that it is respected.

Scourge of Cancer

Cancer Continues to Take Toll in Canada

Cancer continues to take its toll. To cancer (all forms) was attributed 422 deaths in Canada (except Quebec) during September, 1921, or one death from cancer out of every 19 from all causes for the month. In September, 1920, there were 385 deaths from cancer, or a rate of one cancer death out of every fifteen from all causes, according to figures issued by the Bureau of Statistics.

Minard's Liniment for Coughs and Colds

The Cause of all the Trouble

Low Price of Farm Products Affecting Trade

The field crops of Canada had in 1921 an approximate value of $949,000, according to the preliminary estimate of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. The value placed on the crops of Quebec was $192,775,000, but revised figures have raised the amount to $219,154,000, a substantial increase of $26,379,000. Whereas final figures will increase in estimate for other provinces is uncertain, but what is sure is that the income of the farmers of Canada has suffered a serious diminution in the last two years. In 1919, field crops had a value of $1,537,170,000, so that it may be assumed the harvest of 1921 represented a loss of not less than half a billion dollars, or approximately one-third in gross value. The loss in net return should not be so great, since the price of farm labor was less than in 1919, and the cost of commodities purchased by farmers had also been somewhat reduced.

The resulting loss, however, of $500,000,000 taken out of the revenue of farmers from field crops must adversely affect the general trade of Canada, and necessitate the carrying over of loans to farmers until another crop has been gathered under more favorable economic conditions.

The Family Physician.—The good doctor is always with his fee. But it is not always possible to get a doctor just when you want him. In such cases, common sense suggests the use of reliable home remedies, such as Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, which is wonderfully effective in easing inflammatory pains and in relieving cuts, scratches, bruises and sprains. The presence of this remedy in the family medicine chest saves many a fee.

How To Make Quick Bread

BY LORETTO C. LYNCH

An Acknowledged Expert in All Matters Pertaining to Household Management.

Even the woman who prides herself upon being an efficient household manager occasionally finds herself short of yeast bread. And while a diet of quick bread is not to be recommended as a three-times-a-day food every woman should know how to make up a quick bread to help in an emergency.

Tea biscuit or baking powder biscuits take but twelve to fifteen minutes to bake, while an egg muffin or a plain muffin takes over twenty minutes. It is well to commit to memory the standard proportions for these two quick breads.

Two measuring cupsful or one pint of flour, four level teaspoonfuls of good baking powder, one-half teaspoonful of salt—these are the dry ingredients that should be mixed and sifted two or three times.

If you wish to make biscuit, with the times of a silver fork run in one level tablespoonful of butter or butter substitute until the mixture looks like meal. Cut in enough sweet milk with a knife until the mixture is just stiff enough to be handled on a floured board. Gently pat the mixture into a rectangle one-half inch in thickness. Flour a biscuit cutter each time before cutting biscuits on a well-greased baking pan. Brush over the top with milk and bake in a quick oven twelve to fifteen minutes.

For emergency biscuit enough milk may be added so that the mixture will just about drop from a spoon. The biscuits should be dropped by the spoonful upon a greased plate at least two inches apart. Depending upon the size, these biscuits will bake in about a time as ten minutes. The emergency biscuit eliminates the trouble of cutting, and thus saves time.

The same proportions of dry ingredients may be used for the muffin mix. Enough milk to make a drop batter is then beaten in and one or two tablespoonfuls of melted butter or butter substitute is beaten in at the end. If it is desired to enrich this mixture by the addition of an egg the beaten egg is added to about a half cupful of milk and then enough more milk is used to produce a batter that will drop easily but not run from the spoon.

Part grain flour or part rye flour or part bran may be used instead of all wheat flour. One level tablespoonful of sugar may be added. Half a cup of cleaned, hulled currants may be added. The muffin cups should be filled about half full and of course they must have been well greased. Just before removing the muffins from the oven brushing them over with milk will add in getting a rich brown appetizing crust.

Possible Ancestor of Man

American Scientists Are Interested in A New Discovery

The skull of an animal which, as shown by the teeth, unquestionably belongs to the great race which includes ourselves and monkeys, and which may therefore be that of an ancestor of man, has been dug up by the Smithsonian Institute in Central Montana. But the institute believes the animal was not a monkey. So far as is known there never were any monkeys living in what is now the United States.

Mothers, Advice for You!

London, Ont.—"I wish I could tell all the women in the world to suffer with woman's trouble, what a wonderful medicine Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is. My earliest experience with it was during my first pregnancy. I became dropsical and my people were quite alarmed about my condition. The doctor's medicine did not seem to reach my trouble at all so my husband urged me to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and to please him I did. Before I had finished the second bottle the distress and dropsy left me and I felt in absolutely perfect health. I had no further trouble from that time on. I afterwards took Favorite Prescription whenever in a nervous condition, and it has always strengthened and built me up."—Mrs. Lily Stoddard, 438 Ontario St.

Service Should Be The Cardinal Policy Of Every Business Enterprise

Under the above title and in connection with the business course of the Alexander Hamilton Institute of New York, Mr. E. W. Beatty, President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, has contributed a little pamphlet known as "Lecture No. 24. Based upon the author's ripe experience, it is an authoritative message from his special field of business activity and under various heads, deals with man's struggle with nature; the personal element in business; the pioneer spirit; etc.

In view of the author's prominent position throughout the business and railway world and his rapid and early attainment of the presidency of the Canadian Pacific Railway, his message is of more than unusual interest at this time of general depression. It will be read and studied by hundreds of students enrolled in the Hamilton Institute and serve as an exhortation and example to them in their future struggles for advancement and success in whatever field of endeavor they may have chosen.

Some extracts and aphorisms from the pamphlet are as follows: "Eliminate effort and you drain the spring of life. It is not attainment so much as the striving for it that lends zest to our existence. Work is not a curse but a blessing as those know, only too well, who are deprived of it through sickness or accident. For most of us the business of living is an all absorbing occupation."

In regard to "Man's Struggle with Nature," he says: "Self-preservation is not only the first law of nature; it is the first law of business. Every man struggles to maintain his own for himself and for his family, and all his acts are dictated by that effort. The forms of struggle are held in check by the civilization we enjoy, but the struggle is there. The second law is to hold our own, to better our position, to strengthen our grip on all that makes life worth living. Each one working steadily in, as an interest not only adds to his own welfare but improves mankind. Relative to the "Personal Element in Business."

"In the largest company or the most complex corporation the driving power of the individual is the keynote of progress."

Regarding "Interference of the State as a Regulating Factor in the world of business": "The Excessive State Interference can be just as excessive as business enterprise. It is, as it were, a corrective medicine. Now medicine may sometimes be good for a man. It does not, however, follow that in order to be well we should be fed only on pills."

Discussing "State Socialism as a Remedy for the Ills of Business": "How many an illness is due to selfishness. How often the decay of a once powerful company is due to its abuse of privilege and disregard of the interests and opinion of the community it ought to serve. The company or business enterprise that lives for itself and is not conducted ultimately with an eye to its usefulness to the community is an unhealthy business and a source of instability. It incorporates a wrong ideal of conduct, and, sooner or later, is bound to come in conflict with public opinion, to its own ultimate ruin. That business which desires a good old age must be conducted in a spirit of service—service to the community, and service to the public. It will be conducted all the better if it is virile and progressive, full of initiative and new ideas, free from red tape, official rules, castrated precedents and regulations, but it ought always to be conducted in the spirit of good citizenship."

And on "Service, Key Note of Sound Business," he concludes: "The moral of all these considerations is that service should be the cardinal policy of good business. If we keep in mind that we are, above all, servants of the public, we can not go far wrong. Our object is to supply the needs and contribute to the well-being of the people, our clients. We may be as enterprising, as full of initiative, as inventive, as ideas and methods as possible, and this initiative is best fostered if we can count on a reasonable reward, but if we keep service as our watchword, our individuality will always be guided in the right direction. Such a spirit will conduce more than anything else to success, but the success will not be achieved at the cost of the public welfare, and it will obviate all likelihood of the public wasting time, energy and money in attempting to run your business for you."

"If I may be permitted to give an instance from the history of the company which I have the honor to serve, I should like to illustrate my argument from the case of the Canadian Pacific Railway. That railway holds the unique record of being the only large private railway enterprise in the world that escaped the fate of being taken over by the government, even temporarily as a result of the Great War. My firm belief is that its immunity was due to the impregnable position it held in the confidence of the people of Canada through its record of service since its construction as a transcontinental railway."

Wonders of Sound Travel

Noises Can Be Heard Four Miles Above Earth

A famous balloonist named Glashier always found that sounds from the earth varied according to the dampness or dryness of the air.

When in clouds four miles above the earth, he heard a railway train, but when the clouds were far below him, all was silent.

Another balloonist, the Rev. J. M. Bacon, found how wonderfully piercing was the shriek of a railway whistle. The shouts of children were always the first to be heard among the many sounds rising from human beings.

The discharge of a gun was heard by Glashier at a height of two miles. Bacon's experience in this respect was curious. He was ballooning between Woolwich and Plumstead when he heard what he imagined to be the spasmodic yelp of a dog.

It was the sound of artillery practice on Plumstead Marshes a mile below.

At a height of between 5,000 ft. and 6,000 ft. Glashier could hear the deep sound of London rising like the roar of the sea. At a greater height still, the sound had sunk to a mere murmur, while at a height of four miles above London all was hushed.

A noted French balloonist discovered that he could hear the crowing of a cock and the sound of a church bell at 5,000 ft.

Queer Laws in Bavaria

Five years Penal Servitude is Penalty For Overeating
Bavaria is determined to put down excessive eating and drinking and to this end a bill has been introduced in the Diet to punish gluttons with fines amounting to 100,000 marks ($200). In the case of a second offence the punishment would be five years' penal servitude.

It is significantly stated that foreigners residing in Bavaria will not be exempted and that restaurants which encourage gluttony (Schiemere) are also liable to heavy penalties.

Suffering Gone

She is Enthusiastic

Dame Edmond Roy Singing the Praises of Dodd's Kidney Pills

For Six Years She Was Troubled With Pain and Aches But Found the Relief She Looked For in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Pettis Melchior, Matine Co., Que. (Special).—Rejoicing that she is again in good health after six years of suffering, Dame Edmond Roy of this place is singing the praises of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"You can tell everyone," says Dame Roy, "that the pain in my side has disappeared and that my strength has come back."

"I suffered for six years," she continues, "I was also troubled with rheumatism, cramps in the muscles, backache and headache. I took only eight boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills."

The reason that Dame Roy got such prompt relief from Dodd's Kidney Pills is that every one of her troubles is a symptom of kidney trouble. Dodd's Kidney Pills are purely and simply a kidney remedy. They strengthen the kidneys to do their full work of straining the impurities out of the blood.

Derivation of "Salary"

The derivation of our word "salary" is very curious. In ancient times Roman soldiers received a daily portion of salt as part of their pay.

"Sal," in Latin, is salt, and when the salt was, in course of time, commuted for money, the amount was called "salary," and hence, no doubt, the expression, "Not worth his salt"—that is, his salary.

THIN, FLAT HAIR

GROWS LONG, THICK

AND ABUNDANT

"Danderine" costs only 35 cents a bottle. One application ends all dandruff, stops itching and falling hair, and, in a few moments, you see the beauty of your hair. It will appear a mass, so soft, lustrous and easy to do up. But what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair—fine and downy at first—growing all over the scalp. "Danderine" is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. This delightful, stimulating tonic helps thin, falling, faded hair to grow long, thick, heavy and luxuriant.

Tunnel May Connect Europe With Africa

Would Give France Direct Communication With Her Colonies

South Africa is more than the imagination of the ancients contemplated. A political aspect of the latter project is the putting of France in direct communication, via Spain, with her colonies in North Africa.

Though it is probable that the much-discussed tunnel beneath the English Channel will not materialize for some time to come, a tunnel joining the continent of Europe with Africa, should a study of the geological conditions of the Mediterranean prove it feasible, would put France in direct communication, via Spain, with her colonies in Northern Africa.

"Though modern tunnel projects make the laymen gasp at the audacity with which engineers burrow through age-old mountains, unmindful of seemingly impossible barriers, tunnelling has been known since very early times."

"Egyptians, Numidians and American Indians hollowed out underground passages to their tombs or temples, and, early inhabitants on the Euphrates temporarily diverted the waters of that mighty river aside while they bored into the soft ground beneath the river and walled up the passage with brick masonry. The Romans had more pretentious ideas and excavated a 3,000 foot passage through the Podilip hills near Naples."

"Roman roads have made tracks through the rock-floored bases of the proud Alps. The second passage of the Simplon tunnel, the longest in the world, will be opened to tourist traffic early in 1922. Thus will be given an opportunity of repulsing the first of these tunnels which has, since its opening in 1905, borne the burden of travel between France and Italy."

"One of the most interesting railroad lines through the Alps is the Gotthard line, with its 50 tunnels, connecting Switzerland with Italy. The St. Gotthard tunnel, which is between nine and ten miles long, is older than the Simplon. The chief difference between the two is in the grade. The Simplon is driven at a much lower altitude and consequently can be used for express service and can carry freight at a much lower figure. The air in the Gotthard tunnel is fresh and free from smoke."

The Heart of a Watch

The Balance-Wheel Pulsates Some 432,000 Times a Day

The heart of a watch is the balance wheel and unless it is perfectly constructed and made to withstand varying changes in temperature it will not pulsate accurately, and will soon cause the watch to lose or gain. On account of the different temperatures which the ordinary watch must withstand, it is necessary for the balance wheel to differ in metals which expand and contract at rates which offset each other. For this reason the wheel is made of finely tempered steel while set around the rim in such a manner as to preserve perfect balance. are bits of brass which act as a check upon the expansion or contraction of the steel. When it is remembered that the balance-wheel of a watch pulsates some 432,000 times a day, and that the delicate mechanism must be adjusted to withstand changes of temperature ranging from body heat to a number of degrees below zero, it will be seen that precautions such as the use of different metals are essential to the operation of a watch which will keep perfect time.

Splendid Work Performed Through Assistance Of The Agricultural Instruction Act

Livestock Industry

On Sound Basis

Herd, Are Increasing and Better Animals Being Produced

Not since 1914 has the livestock industry of this country been on a sounder basis than the present (says the Toronto Globe). War prices of a few years ago, while encouraging unhealthy production, were also responsible for the liquidation of much inferior stock, while the more recent sharp slump in commercial prices, particularly in cattle, resulted in another wholesale disposal of cull and male. A gratifying feature of the change has been the more universal introduction of pure-bred blood into Canadian herds, made possible by the easier prices of stock of this breeding, a natural consequence of the partial collapse of quotations in the commercial market. The present shortage of feed in Ontario and other eastern provinces is causing some liquidation, but little good foundation stock is being sacrificed, while conditions throughout the west, in this connection at least, are most satisfactory.

There are 200,000 more cattle in Canada at present than in 1914; the production of hogs is increasing, and though a decline in sheep population is still reported, this is only to be expected in view of the revival of popularity of these animals during the war.

The cause of agricultural education in the prairie provinces has benefited in nine years to the extent of $1,818,000 out of the ten million dollars voted by the Dominion Parliament under the Agricultural Instruction Act to be distributed through the nine provinces of the country during a period covering ten years. On March 31 of the present year nine years will have elapsed and there will be only one year more to run. At the expiration of that time Manitoba will have received $707,622.48, Saskatchewan $748,790.28, and Alberta $617,475.12, a total of $2,073,818. The report of the working of the act for the year 1920-21 has just been issued. In Manitoba $69,000 of the year's grant was devoted to Agricultural Representatives, Boys' and Girls' Clubs, Short courses and Home Economics. The balance was divided between dairy work, poultry work, soil analysis and survey, beekeeping and the Killarney Demonstration Farm.

In Saskatchewan, of the year's grant $38,418 was devoted to research work and $1,000 to the extension of agricultural instruction in public, high and normal schools, household science, training of teachers and nature study; $7,500 went to women's work; $7,000 each to school fairs and demonstration trains; $5,000 to field husbandry; $3,000 each to animal husbandry and dairying; $2,500 to Agricultural Representatives; $1,600 to a post-graduate course in agriculture and agricultural schools, and $5,000 to a veterinary short course.

In Alberta, more than fifty per cent. of the year's grant, or $40,000, was devoted to the maintenance of the six agricultural schools of the province, $14,900 to agricultural representatives and their work; $5,000 to women's work; and $2,500 to the poultry and egg marketing service. While details of the use of the provincial apportionments may differ from year to year, the summary here given of the uses to which the last completed year's grants were put sufficiently indicates the general trend of the valuable work that is being encouraged and performed with the aid of funds provided under the Agricultural Instruction Act of the Dominion Government.

There are many men on whose heart and nervous system tobacco causes the most serious results. It causes palpitation, pain in the heart, irregularity of its beat, makes the hands tremble, sets the nerves on edge, causes shortness of breath and loss of sleep.

To counteract this demoralizing influence on the heart and nerves there is no remedy so equal.

MILBURN'S

HEART AND NERVE PILLS

They make the heart beat strong and steady, restore tone and vigor to the nerves, and remove all the evil results caused by the tobacco.

Mr. Frank Lutes, 7 Terrace Hill St., Brantford, Ont., writes:—"I had been troubled with palpitation of the heart for a number of years, and by spells it would bother me a lot. The doctor told me it would stop on me sometime if I did not quit tobacco."

When I would get a spell my heart would pound, and I would break out in a perspiration. I would feel as if I would have to sit right down and quit my work; also in the night I would wake up and my heart would be going, I should say about 120 beats a minute. About three years ago I got a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, took them, and found that they did the job. I am feeling fine and have gained over 20 pounds in weight."

Price 50c a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Price of a Battleship

Would More Than Support all of America's Missionaries

The price of a single battleship today is quite beyond the comprehension of the ordinary citizen. Dr. Arthur J. Brown, missionary secretary in the Presbyterian Fellowship, has a statistical mind, and he recently figured out what a battleship would buy in missions.

He asserts that the entire missionary programme of America, reaching sixteen countries, 4,000 cities and employing 24,000 American workers and 100,000 native workers, is being carried on at an expense less than the price of one battleship.

If the price of several battleships were put into Christian missions, there can be no doubt that peace and goodwill throughout the world would make larger progress.

G. W. V. A. OF CANADA

To the Secretaries of all Branches.

Dear Sir and Comrade:—

On February 17th, I circulated all branches advising them that if my Comrade desires to wear his C. E. F. uniform it would first be necessary for him to remove buttons, badges, chevrons, etc., otherwise he would be liable to prosecution on the Order issued to all Police Departments by Military District 13.

I have just received advice that one of our Comrades in Castor has been apprehended and charged with wearing a military overcoat, convicted and sentenced to ten days hard labor without the option of a fine.

Now, Comrade Secretary, this Command has started something on the above mentioned case and you can rely on us to do all possible towards getting this sentence remitted, but the fact remains that if any Comrade desires to wear his military overcoat or uniform he must first remove all buttons, badges, chevrons, and military distinguishing marks.

Don't file this, but give it all publicity in order that our Comrades may be fully protected from this Order.

I would be pleased to have advice and suggestions from your branch on this subject.

Yours fraternally,
R. Gallachie,
Prov. Sec.-Treas.

shows that rentals consume between 15 and 20 per cent of the average wage earner's income. This is very important as history shows that social disorders increase when people are not properly housed.

The low cost of building ultimately prove the real solution of this situation. Prices for lumber have now reached such a low point that there is no reason why anyone should longer put off building.

Then Mr. Smith spoke again. "Miss Maggie, please don't say no—yet. Let me—explain—about how I came here, and all that. But first, before I do that, let me tell you how I love you—how I have loved you all these long months. I think I loved you from the first time I saw you. Whatever comes, I want you to know that. And if you could care for me a little—just a little, I'm sure I could make it more—in time, so you would marry me. And we would be so happy! Don't you believe I'd try to make you happy—dear?"

"Yes, oh, yes," murmured Miss Maggie, still with her head turned away.

"Good! Then all you've got to say is that you'll let me try. And we will be happy, dear! Why, until I came here to this little house, I didn't know what living, real living, was. And I have been, just as you said, a selfish old thing."

Miss Maggie, with a start of surprise, faced the image in the mirror, but Mr. Smith was looking at her, not at her reflection, so she did not meet his eyes.

"Why, I never!" she stammered.

"Yes, you did, a minute ago. Don't you remember? Oh, of course, you didn't realize—everything, and perhaps you wouldn't have said it if you'd known. But you said it—and you meant it, and I'm glad you said it. And, dear little woman, I—I care so much, it can't be that you—don't care—any!"

Miss Maggie caught her breath and turned away again.

"Don't you care—a little?"

The red crease in Miss Maggie's neck to her forehead, but still she was silent.

"If I could only see your eyes," pleaded the man. Then, suddenly, he saw Miss Maggie's face in the mirror.

Appetite Good,
Gained 20 lbs.
Could Not Feel Better

From a nervous wreck this man was restored to health, strength and happiness.

He tells his own story in this letter.

Mr. Ralph A. Roberts, Loverna, Sask., writes:

"In 1917 I had lost all appetite, failed 25 pounds in weight, became very nervous and shaky and in fact given up all hope of recovery. For some time I had suffered from constipation, which kept getting worse, until I was fast becoming a total wreck. Doctors and their drugs were sending me to my grave at the age of 39."

"Then I read about people being restored by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and after three months' use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and Kidney-Liver Pills I found that my bowels were restored to normal movement each day and the constipation was no more. I had a good appetite, had gained 20 pounds and could not feel better. I shall always be grateful for these benefits."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50c a box; Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, 25c a box, all dealers or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto.

ror. The next moment Miss Maggie herself turned a little, and in the mirror their eyes met. "What a mirror Mr. Smith found his answer."

"You care—a little?" he breathed at her in his arms.

"But I don't!" Miss Maggie shook her head vigorously against his coat collar.

"What?" Mr. Smith's clasped hands a little.

"I care—a great deal," whispered Miss Maggie, the coat collar, with a little emphasis.

"You—darling!" triumphed the man, bestowing a rapturous kiss on the tip of a small pink ear—the nearest point to Miss Maggie's lips that was available, until, with tender determination, he turned her face to his.

A moment later, blushing rosy, Miss Maggie drew herself away.

"There, we've been quite silly enough—old folks like us."

"We're not silly. Love is never silly—not real love like ours. Besides, we're only as old as we feel. Do you feel old? I don't. I've just—years since this morning. And you know I'm just beginning to live—really live, anyway! I feel—twenty one."

"I'm afraid you act it," said Miss Maggie, with mock severity.

"You would—if you'd been brought what I have," retorted Mr. Smith, drawing a long breath. "And when I think what a mistake it is to begin with—You see, I didn't mean to start off with that, first thing; and I was so afraid that—that even if you did care for John Smith, you wouldn't for me—just at first. But you do, dear!"

At Mr. Smith's length he held her off his hands, and she, with her happy eyes searching her face saw the dawn of the dazed question.

"Wouldn't care for you if I did for John Smith. What do you mean?" she demanded, her eyes slowly sweeping him from head to foot and back again.

"What do you mean?"

"Miss Maggie!" instinctively his tongue went back to the old manner of address, but his hands still held her shoulders. "You don't mean—that you can't mean—that you didn't understand—that you don't understand that I am—Oh, good Heavens! Well, I have made a mess of it this time," he groaned. Releasing his hold on her shoulders, he turned and began to tramp up and down the room.

"Nice little John Alden—Miss Smith! Why, you are John Smith. Miss Maggie, have I got to—propose to you all over again for—another man, now?"

"No, another man! I—I don't think I understand you." Miss Maggie had grown a little white.

"Then you don't know—you didn't understand, a few minutes ago, when I—I spoke first, when I asked you about—those twenty millions?"

She lifted her hand quickly, pleadingly.

"Mr. Smith, please, don't let's bring money into it at all. I don't care a bit if you haven't got any money."

Mr. Smith's jaw dropped.

"I haven't got any money," he ejaculated stupidly.

"No! Oh, yes, I know, I said I loved money." The rich red came but to her face in a flood. "But I didn't mean—And it's just a case of a test and an opportunity when you don't have money—more or less. I didn't mean it—that way. I never thought of—of how you might take it if I wanted it. I don't, indeed, I don't. Oh, can't you—understand?"

"Understand! Good Heavens!" Mr. Smith threw up both his hands. "And I thought I'd given myself away! Miss Maggie. He came to her and stood close, but he did not offer to touch her. "I thought, after I'd said what I did about—about those twenty millions that you understood—that you knew I was—Stanley Fulton himself."

"That you were—who?" Miss Maggie asked motionlessly, her eyes looking straight into his, amazed, incredulous.

"Stanley Fulton. I am Stanley Fulton. My God! Maggie, don't look at me like that. I thought—I had told you. Indeed, I did!"

She was backing away now, slowly, step by step. "Maggie, almost laughing, had taken the place of the amazement and incredulity in her eyes."

"And you are Mr. Fulton?"

"Yes, yes! But—"

"And you've been here all these months—yes, years—under a false name, pretending to be what you weren't—talking to us, eating at our tables, winning our confidence, letting us talk to you about yourself, even pretending that you—how could you?" Her voice broke.

"Maggie, dearest," he begged, springing toward her, "if you'll only let me—"

But she stopped him promptly, drawing herself to her full height.

"I am not your dearest," she flamed angrily. "I did not give my love to you."

"Maggie!" he implored.

But she drew back still farther.

"No! I gave it to John Smith—gentleman, I supposed. A man—poor, yes, I believed him poor; but a man who at least had a right to his name! I didn't give it to Mr. Stanley Fulton, spy, trickster, who makes life itself a masquerade for sport! I do not know Mr. Stanley Fulton, and—I do not wish to!"

The room echoed in a sound very like sob; but Miss Maggie, with her head still high, turned her back and walked to the window.

"The man, apparently stunned for a moment, stood watching her, his eyes gripped, dismayed, hopeless. Then, white-faced, he turned and walked toward the door. With his hand almost on the knob he slowly wheeled about and faced the woman again. He hesitated visibly, then in a full, useless voice he began to speak.

"Miss Maggie, before John Smith steps entirely out of your life, he would like to say just this, please—not in justification, but in explanation—of—of Stanley G. Fulton. Fulton did not intend to be a spy, or a trickster, or to make life a masquerade for sport. He was a lonely old man—he felt old. He had no wife or child. True, he had no one to care for, but—he had no one to care for him, either. Remember that, please. He did have a great deal of money—more than he knew what to do with. Oh, he tried—various ways of spending it, but they all failed. They were not worth speaking of here. They resulted, chiefly, in showing him that he was not as wise as he might be in that line, perhaps."

The man paused and wet his lips. A window Miss Maggie still stood, with her back toward him before.

"The time came, finally," resumed the man, "when Fulton began to wonder what would become of his millions when he was alone with them. He had a feeling that he would like to will a good share of them to some of his own kin; but he had no nearer relatives than some cousins back East, in—Hillerton."

Miss Maggie at the window drew in her breath, and held it suspended, letting it out slowly.

"He didn't know anything about those cousins," went the man, "dully, wearily," and he got to wondering what they would do with the money. I think he felt, as you said today, that you felt that one must know how to spend five dollars if one would get the best out of five thousand. So Fulton felt that, before he gave a man fifteen or twenty millions, he would like to know—what he would probably do with them. He had seen so many cases where sudden great wealth had brought—great sorrow."

And so when he fixed up a little scheme, he would give each one of these three cousins of his a hundred thousand dollars apiece, and then, unknown to them, he would get acquainted with them, and see which of them would be likely to make the best use of their twenty millions. It was a silly scheme, of course—a silly, absurd foolishness from beginning to end."

He did not finish his sentence. There was a rush of swift feet, a swirl of skirts, then full upon him there fell a whirlwind of sobbing, clinging arms, and incoherent ejaculations.

"It wasn't silly—it wasn't silly!" It was perfectly splendid! I see it all now. I understand it!—I understand it! Oh, I think it was—wonderful! And I—I'm so ashamed!"

Later—very much later, when something like hard coherence had become an attribute of their conversation, as they sat together upon the old sofa, the man drew a long breath and said:

"Then I'm quite forgiven?"

"There is nothing to forgive."

"And you consider yourself engaged to both John Smith and Stanley G. Fulton?"

"No, sounds pretty bad, but—yes," blushed Miss Maggie.

"And you must love Stanley G. Fulton just exactly as well—no, a little better, than you did John Smith."

"I'll—try to—love him as lovable." Miss Maggie's head was at a saucy tilt.

"He'll try to be; but—it won't be all play, you know, for you. You've got to tell him what to do with those twenty millions. By the way, what will you do with them?" he demanded interestedly.

"I haven't got any money," Miss Maggie looked up, plainly startled.

"Why, yes, that's so. You—you—If you're Mr. Fulton, you have got—and I forgot all about—those twenty millions. And they're yours, Mr. Smith!"

"No, they're not Mr. Smith's," objected the man. "They belong to Fulton, if you please. Furthermore, can't you call me anything but that abominable 'Mr. Smith'! My name is Stanley. You might—er—abbreviate it to—er—'Stan,' now."

"Perhaps so—but I shan't," laughed Miss Maggie—"not yet. You may be thankful I haven't yet enough left to call you anything—al—al—becoming engaged to two men all at once."

"And with having the responsibility of spending twenty millions, too?"

"Oh, yes, the money!" Her eyes began to shine. She drew another long breath. "Oh, we can do so much with that money! Why, only think what is needed right here—better milk for the babies, and a community house, and the streets cleaner and neater, and a new carpet for the church, and a new hospital with—"

"But, see here, aren't you going to spend some of that money on yourself?" he demanded. "Isn't there something you want?"

Alberta's Seed Fair

Oats and Wheat Almost Perfect, Says Judge F. S. Grisdale

Never has there been such an exhibit of grain in Alberta, both as to quality and quantity, as is shown at the provincial seed fair held in Edmonton, stated F. S. Grisdale, following the completion of his work as judge at that fair. In some of the oat classes the first four prize winners were so close that the decisions might have been reversed without much criticism. They were almost perfect, he stated.

This was true of both oats and wheat, and compared most favorably with the first prize winners at world competitions. There was a splendid exhibit of alfalfa seed, some of it, though not all from the irrigated districts. One sample that came into the prize money was grown west of Vermilion, and it was suggested by Mr. Grisdale that if such good seed can be grown in clovers and alfalfa, it should be put on a commercial scale.

Ontario Loss in Oat Crop

Cost Farmers More to Raise than the Selling Price

That the oat crop raised in Ontario last year actually cost the farmers of the province more to raise than they obtained from its sale is indicated in striking manner by the results of the pre-profit competition. Young farmers from eight counties competed and only one, Cecil Lathur, of Lennox and Addington, was credited with a profit, and then only $1.42.

The results with potatoes showed better profits, running from $57.40 to $536.80 on the test acre.

WHAT DOES YOUR MIRROR REVEAL?

Does it Tell You That Your Blood is Thin and Watery?

When a growing girl becomes pale, complains of exhaustion, dizzy spells, headache and stomach trouble, she should know that these things are evidences of anemia or bloodlessness. A glance in the mirror will tell the story. There is immediate need for a tonic, a system builder that will completely restore the missing qualities to the blood that every part of the body will share in the benefit.

A good example of the result of wise treatment in cases of this kind is given by Mrs. George R. Smith, of Quebec, N.S., who says: "I can not praise Dr. Williams' Pink Pills too highly for what they have done for my three daughters. My eldest daughter, Edna, at the age of 14, became run down, and I got her three boxes of the pills, and by the time she had taken them she was in good health, and is now a healthy married woman. My second daughter, Martha, at the age of 16, was awfully run down and pale. In fact she had always been a delicate child, but gradually became worse. At last she could not go up stairs without having to sit down and rest, and could not even do any kind of light work without being greatly fatigued. Finally I gave her Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and after taking them we found they did her more good than all the other medicine she had taken, and she is now in good health. Then my younger daughter, Irene, now 15, became so run down that she had to stop going to school. But after taking eight boxes of the pills she is now a big, healthy girl. I feel that after what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done in my home there can be no doubt of their value, and I hope someone else will benefit from our experience."

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail post-paid at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Cream Lace Lightens Black Satin Frock

By Marie Belmont

Black satin is the fabric for spring and when it is developed with the new skirt of circular movement the effect is charming indeed.

The frock above of soft black satin finds individuality in its insets of cream colored radium lace and its attractive metal grille. The circular skirt is reappearing and promises wide popularity. A compromise of this mode is sometimes seen in circular insets at either side.

Veritably, dresses may be built around fancy girdles this spring. The girde here is of two slender silver chains enclosing at intervals square ornaments containing flat stones.

First Stamp Dealer Dies

Had Been Conducting Prominent Trade in London Since 1860

London's first stamp dealer, William Simpson Lincoln, has died at the age of 78.

When at school in 1854, Mr. Lincoln began collecting and became the possessor of about 210 varieties, which he kept in a small book.

Two years later he began exchanging with a fellow collector, and this was soon followed by ventures in dealing. From 1860 onwards he took a prominent part in the trade, conducting his business from a small shop in High Holborn. Over twenty years ago he moved to his present premises.

CASTORIA

Fletcher's Castoria is strictly a remedy for Infants and Children. Foods are specially prepared for babies. A baby's medicine is even more essential for Baby. Remedies primarily prepared for grown-ups are not interchangeable. It was the need of a remedy for the common ailments of Infants and Children that brought Castoria before the public after years of research, and no claim has been made for it that its use for over 30 years has not proven.

What is CASTORIA?

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. For more than thirty years it has been in constant use for the relief of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic and Diarrhoea; allaying Feverishness arising therefrom, and by regulating the Stomach and Bowels, aids the assimilation of Food; giving healthy and natural sleep. Looks for Linking Up Canada With London and Melbourne

Addressing the Canadian Club at Toronto, A. H. Morse, general manager of the Marconi Company, said he would be greatly disappointed if, within two years, there was not direct wireless services between Montreal and London and between Vancouver and Melbourne, Australia.

Mr. Morse said a wireless or electro-magnetic wave passed around the earth in a little less than one-eighth of a second. There was no need, he said, for any point on the earth to be out of immediate telegraphic touch with any other point. Transmission of power by wireless, though, was not yet a commercial success.

The Policy of Delay

Germany Hoping to Get Out of Reparations Payment

The prolonged shuffling and repeated delays of the German Government in the matter of reparations have all the marks of a policy deliberately calculated. To gain time, to tire the allies, to hope that something lucky may turn up in the chapter of accidents—these have been the obvious motives. We are now more than two years from the signing of the treaty of peace. In that period Germany, with a population of 60,000,000, has paid only about half the sum which France, with a population not much more than half hers, paid to Germany in the two years following 1870.—New York Times.

What Happens to Old Railroad Ties

The railway passenger who sees piles of worn-out cross ties piled up and set on fire by repair gangs along the right of way sometimes wonders why this is done and asks why people are not allowed to use them for fuel. The Pennsylvania Railroad has issued an information pamphlet dealing with this subject which states:—

In the first place, it is far from true that all the old ties are burned. A considerable number are constantly being sold to persons living on or near the right of way, who buy them at nominal prices, usually ten or fifteen cents apiece, and use them for firewood.

That is about as far as the railroad company has been able to go, thus far, in finding an outlet for worn-out ties. Such a method of disposal is practicable only in those cases where the ties can be delivered at a public crossing, or other point where they can be obtained safely by the user, and where the cost of so delivering them is not greater than the nominal prices obtainable.

The Company cannot sanction the public going promiscuously over tracks and through yards to gather up old ties. To do so would be practically letting down the bars against trespassing on the tracks, an evil which has been the cause of about half of all the fatal accidents on railroads in the United States.

Efforts have been made to interest dealers in firewood in buying the old ties, but not thus far with much success. The causes appear to be that the old ties are not dry, that they contain more or less stone, grit and slag wedged in the cracks, which might injure the saws used in cutting them; that in many cases they are partly decayed; that they are dried out, and that their fibre is more or less crusted so that they burn out too quickly. These are among the reasons assigned by dealers who have not been willing to buy the railroad company enough to cover the cost of collecting the ties and delivering them to a point at which they could be removed.

Efforts have also been made to dispose of old ties in a number of other ways, including sale for wood-pulp purposes, for the extraction of chemicals, for burning and sale of the ashes for fertilizer, and for manufacture into charcoal, but without success in interesting parties engaged in these occupations.

The Company will be glad to continue, and wherever feasible to extend, the present practice of selling old ties to individual consumers, for nominal prices at points where they can be delivered without danger to the purchaser and without costing for collection and transportation more than they are worth as fuel. The management will welcome any other suggestions by which more of the old ties can be usefully disposed of or made available for commercial or industrial purposes.

The Canadian Pacific Railway goes further than the Pennsylvania Railroad and gives away ties to any who will take them, such giving being surrounded with the necessary safeguards as to trespassing. The experience of the Canadian Pacific is that ties are taken only where there is no standing timber in the vicinity, and that in many cases the farmers taking the ties do not use them for firewood but for general purposes around the farm, indicating that the value of old ties as firewood in this country is extremely small.

"What is the secret of success?" asks everybody. Opinions differ.

"Push," says the button.

"Never be led," says the pencil.

"Take pains," says the window.

"Always keep cool," says the ice.

"Be up to date," says the calendar.

"Never lose your head," says the match.

"Make light of your troubles," says the fire.

"Do a driving business," says the hammer.

"Don't be merely one of the hands," says the clock.

"Aspire to grater things," says the nutmeg.

"Be sharp in all your dealings," says the knife.

"Find a good thing and stick to it," says the stamp.

THE PROVINCIAL GRAND BLACK PRECEPTORY

The Provincial Grand Black Preceptory was held in the Odd Fellows Temple, Calgary, on Tuesday the 14 March. There was a large gathering of Sir Knights from the Preceptory all over Alberta. The morning and afternoon sessions were taken up with business and the election of officers. In the evening the Royal Black degree was held in the Royal White degree was exemplified in a manner that was highly creditable to the excellent degree teams that officiated.

In view of the elimination of all cream buying stations throughout the province on the first of May, as provided for by special legislation passed by the Alberta legislature last week, the Swift Canadian Co. is making use of our advertising columns during the next few weeks in order to call attention to their exceptional facilities for handling direct cream shipments. Backed by very large financial resources, and manufacturing butter on a big scale, the company is in a position to pay the very highest prices for cream on an absolutely cash basis. During the last few years the cream buying business of the Swift Co. has increased to a phenomenal extent and the new publicity plans of the company ensure that that increase will be maintained in an even greater ratio in the future. This is the first time in the history of company that the weekly newspapers of Alberta have been used for advertising purposes, and this fact is a tribute to the growing power of the weekly newspaper as an advertising medium.
